

Historical Ridership - VTA Buses

VTA service cuts to "low productivity" routes made much of VTA's network unusable, resulting in huge ridership losses (>30%)

Since 1990, three large service cuts and a major systemwide restructuring all followed VTA's Next Network philosophy. It didn't work.

There is simply not enough bus service overall. VTA operates 1/3 less service than it promised to Measure A voters in 2000. VTA offers less service today than in 1990, despite the county's population growing by 25%.
